Child and Youth Safe Standards: Safeguarding Policy and Procedure

Introduction

The Network of Education Associations of Tasmania (NEAT) is committed to promoting and protecting the interests and safeguarding children and youth in its provision of services specifically for children, facilities for use by children and youth, and/or engaging children and youth as volunteers to assist the associations in providing services, facilities, and goods.

A commitment to the Tasmanian Child and Youth Safe Organisation Framework

The Child and Youth Safe Organisations Framework established by the Child and Youth Safe Organisations Act 2023 (Tas) comprises the 10 Child and Youth Safe Standards, complemented by a Universal Principle embedding Aboriginal Cultural Safety, and a Reportable Conduct Scheme. This Scheme has an independent oversight by an Independent Regulator. The Framework defines the obligations of any organization or association to promote the wellbeing of children and young people and uphold their right to safety from all forms of harm in institutional settings.

Policy

NEAT is committed to promoting the Child and Youth Safe Standards for the network of education associations in Tasmania, where children and young people are safe, feel safe, and their voices are heard about activities and services that affect their lives. Specific attention is paid to the cultural safety of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children and young people, all children from culturally and/or linguistically diverse backgrounds, as well as the safety of children and young people with a disability.

Objective

The objective in this policy is to provide information support to NEAT member associations and their management committees to uphold the safeguarding standards and Tasmania's regulatory framework in the design and management of educational programs, events and services which include or are accessed by children and young people.

Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to assist management committees, associates or volunteers, contractors, and employees of NEAT Member Associations:

- prevent child abuse at any events or in any programs,
- maintain an organizational culture of child and youth safety,
- ensure that all parties are aware of their responsibilities for establishing controls and procedures for preventing abuse and/or detecting abuse when it occurs, and
- provide information and guidance to volunteers, contractors or employees regarding any reportable conduct, or action that should be taken where they suspect any abuse within or outside of the association.

All management committee directors, employees, contractors, volunteers, and associates have a shared responsibility for the care and protection of children and reporting information concerning child abuse.

Scope

NEAT supports and respects all children, youth, staff and volunteers. Child protection is a responsibility shared between all directors, employees, workers, contractors, associates, and volunteer members of the NEAT community.

NEAT is committed to assisting education associations in Tasmania prevent child abuse and harm resulting from discrimination based on disability, race, ethnicity, religion, sex, intersex status, gender identity or sexual orientation.

NEAT member associations must apply all 10 Child and Youth Safe Standards in order to ensure that the right to cultural safety for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children and young people embodies this 'universal principle' in action as it was designed, in consultation with local Aboriginal organisations.

NEAT is committed to promoting and protecting the interests of children and young people involved in its delivery of services, programs and events. All children and youth, regardless of their gender, race, religious beliefs, age, disability, sexual orientation, or family or social background, have equal rights to protection from abuse.

NEAT is committed to the Universal Principle for Aboriginal Cultural Safety, those from culturally and/or linguistically diverse backgrounds, and to providing a safe environment for children living with a disability.

Child Safe Standards

The 10 Standards mirror the 10 National Principles for Child Safe Organisations developed by the Australian Human Rights Commission (AHRC) and endorsed by all Commonwealth, State and Territory governments to reflect the child safe standards recommended by the Royal Commission. The scope of the standards encompass all forms of harm to children and young people, in addition to child sexual abuse.

Standard 1 requires organisations to ensure that child safety and wellbeing is embedded in organisational leadership, governance, and culture.

Standard 2 ensures that children and young people are informed about their rights, participate in decisions affecting them and are taken seriously.

Standard 3 ensures families and communities are informed and involved in promoting child safety and wellbeing.

Standard 4 guarantees that equity is upheld and diverse needs respected in policy and in practice.

Standard 5 requires that people working with children and young people are suitable and supported to reflect child safety and wellbeing values in practice.

Standard 6 requires processes to response to complaints and concerns to be child-focused.

Standard 7 expects that staff and volunteers are equipped with the knowledge, skills and awareness to keep children and young people safe through ongoing education and training.

Standard 8 requires physical and online environments to promote safety and wellbeing while minimising the opportunity for children and young people to be harmed.

Standard 9 sees regular review and improvement of the child and youth safe standards within organisation.

Standard 10 ensures that policies and procedures document how the entity is safe for children and young people.

The 'overarching principle' embeds the right of Aboriginal children and young people to cultural safety sits across all 10 Child and Youth Safe Standards.
